Three Hundred Athletes to Be Seen in G. W. U. Indoor Meet Next Saturday

THREE HUNDRED IN HATCHETITES' MEET

Best Athletes of This Section and Stars of Olympic Games Indoor Contests.

COMPETE SATURDAY NIGHT

Abe Kiviat and Mel Sheppard Will Be Seen in George Washington Games.

Three hundred athletes have officially entered the George Washington University track meet which will be staged Convention Hall Saturday night, This number represents the class of this section, besides stars that are being ported from New England and the North, and which will prove a big attraction to those who have never seen Olympic contestants other than in the

Abel Kiviat, who made his debut in the Stockholm games last summer, is entered in the 100-yard open handlcap, while his team mate, Mel Sheppard, who broke the world's records in the 1,500 neter event and in the 880-yard run at English Olympics at London in 1908 will be seen in the latter event class Saturday night. An entrant of particularly local inrest is that of J. Kersburg, the former Harvard football star, who is now member of the Washington Athletic Club, and who will put the shot in the George Washington meet. Washington high and preparatory schools will b esented more completely than in other meet held here, as will its ges and athletic clubs.

Horter, Gallagher, Stebbins, and Terwilliger Star in Meadowbrook Games.

PHILADELPHIA. Pa., Feb. 20. Pennsylvania's one mile relay team suffered an expensive defeat at the hands of Georgetown here at the Meadov brook Club games at the Second Regiment Armory. The Washington quartet showed surprising strength, and after taking the lead at the start of the race were never overtaken, winning by a margin of eighty-five yards. Eddle Horter, former Philadelphia schoolboy star, started the first relay for Georgetown. His clever running gave John Gallegher, the Olympic n arathoner, a lead of forty feet, while phy is at home, 1,800 miles away. If the air is hot minus the presence of the latter increased the gap by several yards. Horier was pitted against Craig, while Gallegher opposed Van Alst. Stebbins, running third for the winners, had more speed than any of his fast team mates. Cross was his opponent, and the Quaker lad could not compare with the Blue and Gray sprinter, Speaker. Provided, of course, it would help Fred along.

Stebbins gave Bob Terwilliger George town's anchor man, a lead of sixty yards or more. Terwilliger could have won the race from this point without exertion, but throughout his entire dis-tance the fleet Georgetown man sprint-ed and finished far in the lead of Foster, reputed as Penn's best quarter-miler. When it was announced that Georgetown had established a new record of 3 minutes 30 2-5 seconds, the large number of alumni present rose is a body to give their favorites a rous

Now Up to the N..L

Isn't it about time for the National League to cut in with some upheaval beyond the more or less routine finish of the last few years? By routine finish we mean the eternal presence of three lone clubs-New York. Pittsburgh, and Chicago-up in the first three rows, and the eternal presence of another club-Boston-crowning the grotto. New York, Pittsburgh, and Chicago fighting for the top; Brooklyn and Boston gouging at the bottom; Philadelphia, Cincinnati, and St. Louis mangled in between-and there you have the National League dope of the past twelve years.

Chance for a Thrill or Two.

Murphy, think what it would be if C. Webb was at hand; Grandoldgehenna Last season in the American a new contender-Boston-came from fourth place and won the flag. A seventh place club-Washington-came from the rut and slipped by the Athletics,

And what is even more bizarre and astounding, the humid Browns arose from the cellar.

Now, if 'Colonel Ebbetts' Dodgers could shoot into second place, the Reds or Phillies tear off a pennant, and the benumbed Braves climb into seventh place-well. SOME YEAR would be the proper pronunciation.

The wide gap in the National between New York, Pittsburgh, and Chicago is still too wide to be hurdled in one season unless Red Dooin space, this man is second to no one in the game when it comes to club can steer his clammy athletes away from the hospital or J. Tinker can tear a hole in tradition and wiggle safely through.

Gap Still Wide.

You can figure what the gap must be when the Cubs can lose Chance. Tinker, and Brown in one year, after finishing third, and still be picked as the stoutest contenders for third place. And if Evers can maintain an even poise he still has the material to crowd both Clarke and McGraw to a finish. There's still a kick in the old machine and sufficient stuff around to pike along with the elect.

Wherever he finishes the Crab will be one of the most interesting centers of inspection this spring, and will undoubtedly provide a vital Sure. Look what it has done to poor Ed Walsh. The fellow used to spark along the highway now ahead.

Freshmen Will Have Team at Georgetown

Georgetown will be represented by freshman nine this spring, according to present intentions of the class which met vesterday for this purpose. Loughran Daly, of New York city, who was chosen manager, announced that he would begin to prepare his schedule immediately, and had already written for dates with Mt. St. Joseph's, of Philadelphia, and the Naval Academy

Philadelphia, and the Naval Academy plebes. Washington high schools, also, will be asked for contests.

There are a number of talented youngsters who will endeavor to win places on the team. Billy Martin, former Georgetown Prep star; Marum and McCarthy, of the same school; Cass and Flanagan, formerly with Fordham Prep.: Curry, of Boston; Butler, Duffy, and Klauberg, all of New York, seem to be the leading candidates for places on the teams, if their services are not needed by the varsity.

Interesting Game Looked For Tonight

Because of the rivalry which exists between the teams, Bull Moosers of the M. C. A., and Epiphany should make it interesting in their game tonight at the "Y" basketball court. The contest is scheduled to take place at 8:30. These teams have met loften in the past few weeks and each has experienced about the same number of wins and defeats. the same number of wins and defeats.

The Bull Moosers will line up with
